On Android Nougat 7.0 or later, you can enlarge or shrink items on the screen in the display size settings. If you are using a Samsung phone, press and hold the home screen to select the icon grid for the home screen or the applications screen. If none of these options are available, you can use third-party Android launchers that allow you to change the icon size on your Android. This article will show you how to do this on most Android phones, as well as third-party launchers that also allow you to resize icons. The ability to resize icons in Android depends on the version of Android you are using. For example, in Android Nougat 7.0 and later, there is an option in settings to adjust icon size. Samsung phones offer additional home screen settings for this. However, if you have an older Android, you're out of luck. Many third-party apps allow you to adjust icon size on Android. Android phones come with a default icon size, but you can easily change the icon size. If you have a newer Android phone, changing the icon size is a quick setup. Swipe down on the home screen and tap the gear icon in the top right corner to access the Android settings menu. Scroll down and select Display to open the Display settings menu. Select Advanced to expand this section. From the Advanced Display Options menu, choose Screen Size. In the Screen Size window, move the slider at the bottom to adjust the size of the screen elements. At the top of the window you can see an example of how the text and icons will look. Now when you return to the home screen, you'll notice that the icons on the screen have gotten larger depending on where you adjusted the size settings. If you want to resize icons or make app icons smaller, follow the steps above, but resize the screen elements so that they are smaller (left) instead of larger. If you have a Samsung phone, resizing the icons on your screen is even easier. Go to the home screen and press and hold anywhere in the empty space. You see menu icons from the screen. Select the Settings icon in the lower right corner. The home screen settings window has two options for customizing the size of the icons. First, select the home screen grid. On the home screen grid page, use the icons at the bottom to adjust the number of icons you want displayed on each home screen. The more icons you turn on, the smaller they will be. When you're done, select Save. The preview window at the top of this screen will show you how large or small the icons appear depending on the selected grid setting. Go back to the home screen settings window, select the application screen grid, and adjust the size of the icons in the application screen windows. Adjust the sizes of the icons in the same way using the grid selection at the bottom of the window. When you're done, select Save. When you are done, the home screen and application screen icons will appear at the size selected in the grid settings. If you don't have a newer Android or Samsung phone, you can install Android launchers that allow you to resize Android icons. Below are some Android launchers that allow you to do this. Nova Launcher: Provides the user interface closest to Android. It is a lightweight and fast launcher that allows you to adjust the grid size just like Samsung users can change app icons. Microsoft Launcher: Instead of using the grid method, this launcher allows you to customize the layout and size of icons on the home screen and in applications. Provides a list of useful customization options beyond icon size. Apex Launcher: This launcher has an option to adjust the icon size from 50% to 150% of the normal icon size in the settings menu. Go Launcher: If you have GO Launcher installed, just long-press the home screen, select Settings, and customize the icons to Large, Default size, or Custom size using the icon settings. Luckily, some smartphone models allow users to do this natively - just look for their settings. For the rest of us, we have the option of installing third-party launchers that offer an easy solution when you want to resize icons. You can also temporarily enlarge the icons. This article describes all three methods. 1. Try a third-party launcher. Most third-party launchers will take care of resizing the icon to your liking. Some popular options are Nova Launcher, Apex Launcher, Smart Launcher, POCO Launcher and the latest Niagara Launcher. Nova Launcher Nova Launcher is probably the most well-known launcher on Android, and with good reason. The app offers a fast and customizable experience that allows users to customize the phone to their liking without affecting the overall performance of the device. Open the Nova settings on your device. Tap Home at the top of the screen. Select the Icon layout option. Adjust app icon size by dragging your finger on the Icon Size slider. Tap Back to review the results. If you're still not satisfied with how everything looks, go back and redo the settings. When you install Nova for the first time, you can set the icon size in the preview window. The icon size you choose here will apply to both the home screen and the app drawer. You can also customize the app layout for both by going to "Home Screen -> Grid Area" and "App Drawer -> App Drawer Grid" and selecting the desired number of icon rows and columns. see in everyone. Apex Launcher Apex Launcher is another great alternative for those looking to customize their Android as it offers a good balance of features including app resizing and performance. Open the Apex menu on your device. From the list of options that appears, select Home Screen. Scroll down until you find the Icon Size slider and use it to set the size of your icons. You can see the real-time change results above. If you are satisfied with the layout, click "Back" to view the results. You can also play with the layout of the app and choose the number of rows and columns of icons on the home screen. The more columns you add, the smaller the icons will be. Also, if you want to change the size of the app icons in the app drawer, go to "Settings -> App Drawer -> Icon Bar and Layout". Here you can resize the icons and customize the layout. Smart Launcher 6 Smart Launcher 6 is a launcher app that has been around for a long time. It comes with great features such as automatic sorting of apps into multiple categories. Of course, the app also allows you to resize the app icon. On a device with Smart Launcher 6, swipe up from the bottom of the screen. You will see the different app categories that the launcher uses to group apps. Click on any of them. Tap the three-dot menu in the upper right corner of the screen. The Application Page window will appear on the screen. Click "Show all settings" to go to the general settings of the application. Find and select General Appearance. Click Mesh Properties. Select "Home Page" or "Application Page" at the top, then use the size icon slider below to decide how your characters should be. In the same section, you can also customize the app grid by choosing the number of columns and rows of apps you want to display on the display. You can easily switch between two pre-designed layouts for your "home" page: "Standard" and "Dense". POCO Launcher 2 POCO Launcher gives you another easy way to change the app icon size. It has a simple and clean interface that won't slow down your phone. Unlike some of the other launchers on our list, it doesn't offer many features, but it does include the ability to customize the app icon size. Swipe up on your device to open the app drawer. Tap the three-line menu in the upper right corner. Go to layout settings. Select desired icon size and number of icons in a row (options are limited compared to other launchers). Niagara Launcher Niagara Launcher is part of a new generation of launcher applications. It has a fast and minimalist user interface that is great for budget devices. This allows users to customize a new home screen layout that includes up to eight of their most used apps. Other applications are accessible from the A-Z list on the right side of the display. The Niagara Launcher feature pack includes the ability to resize app icons. Press and hold any of the icons on the home screen. Select Niagara Settings. Swipe the app icon size bar to choose how you want them to look. Come back and check the result. As you can see, launchers support you when it comes to resizing app icons. But depending on what smartphone you have, you may not need to download a launcher app to get the job done. 2. Check your phone settings. Some phones offer the ability to resize app icons. For example, Pixel device users can easily do this with the following steps. Press and hold an empty space on the Pixel home screen. Select Background and style. Select the grid size. If you want to increase the size of the icon, select 3x3 or 2x2. If you want to reduce the size, choose 5x5 or 4x5. Note. This feature only affects the appearance of icons on the home screen. Apps in the app drawer will stay the same size. In addition, you can also change the app icon size if you are using a Samsung phone with One UI built-in. Press and hold an empty space on the home screen of your Samsung device. Tap the Settings icon. You should see Home Screen Grid and App Screen Grid options. This gives you the ability to change the proportions of apps on your phone's home screen and apps screen, which will affect their size. 3. Make app icons bigger only temporarily Another trick you can use to temporarily resize app icons is to use your phone's accessibility features (if available). Go to "Settings -> Accessibility" on your phone. Turn on "Enlarge label". Click "Got" on the pop-up window that will ask you to triple-tap anywhere on the screen to start the zooming process. A zoom window will appear on the screen. Tap the finger icon in the lower right corner of the window and drag it to the icon you want to enlarge. He will increase it. To exit zoom mode, triple-tap anywhere on the screen again. FAQ Yes. There are many to choose from including Moonshine and Whicons. Yes. Currently, most phones have the ability to change the shape of Android icons. Depending on the model of your phone, you may have different options, but in most cases you will find square and circle options. If you install the launcher on your device, you will get even more options. Again, the answer is yes. System icons are displayed in the quick menu. Depending on the phone model, you can customize their shape, color accents, etc. If you find that your phone doesn't have this feature, you can always turn to a third-party app for help.
